

Special COVID-19 Appeal

It is not business as usual at Virginia Hospital Center as it works to mitigate the impact of COVID-19 in our community. The important and necessary actions that Hospital is undertaking are having an extraordinary effect on the Hospital's operating budget. While aid from the federal and state government will address this in part, there will still be expenditures that will not be reimbursed or supported by government assistance, and delayed procedures and patients visits will also result in significant lost revenue.

We need to make sure the resources that are required to treat patients effectively, to keep employees safe, to sustain vital community health programs, and to maintain critical partnerships remain available so that the Hospital can protect the community's safety and wellbeing during this unprecedented pandemic.

For this reason, the Virginia Hospital Center Foundation has launched a special appeal to the community, offering interested individuals, families, businesses and organizations an opportunity to help the Hospital to manage these additional expenses.

An initial goal of $100,000 has been set for this effort. Every gift of every size is welcome.

For additional information and resources on what Virginia Hospital Center is doing to confront this pandemic, as well as to make a contribution using a credit card, please visit the special COVID-19 response page:
